HOPKINSVILLE VOTERS MUST REGISTER TO-DAY IN ORDER TO VOTE IN NOVEMBER

SLAYER OF LEE JENKINS

Given Second Trial Which Resulted in Another Death Sentence.

BUD WORD WAS CONVICTED.

The Important Case Against J. B. Galbreath Is Next On The Docket.

The jury in the Tom Slaughter murder case was finally accepted as follows:

J. H. Tucker, L. Still, W. L. Carroll, W. F. Boyd, Charlie Word, Will Hord, J. F. Sizemore, Albert Long, Bonnie Martin, P. C. Owen, W. E. Shaw, W. E. Guthrie.

The taking of testimony proceeded rapidly and the case was ready for arguments Saturday afternoon when court adjourned.

The case was strongly prosecuted, Commonwealth's Attorney Smith being assisted by Trimble & Bell, Jas. Breathitt and C. H. Bush. The defendant was represented by Linton & Clark.

Two speeches on each side were made yesterday and the case went to the jury. The speeches were made by Messrs. Linton, Trimble, Clark and Smith, in the order named.

In less than 15 minutes the jury returned the following verdict: "We the jury find the defendant, Tom Slaughter, guilty as charged in the indictment and fix his punishment at death." Slaughter received the verdict with composure and said as he was returned to jail, "They haven't got me yet."

The jury in the Bud Word case reported Saturday, giving Word from 2 to 21 years for the killing of another negro named Ed White.

The case against Jno. B. Galbreath is next on the docket.

Season Opens.

The football season opened Saturday with the following results:

Vanderbilt 105. Bethel 0.
Ky. University 34. Marysville 0.
Pennsylvania 35. Gettysburg 0.
Harvard 7. University Maine 0.
Colgate 13. Cornell 7.
Yale 7. Holycross 0.

DAN BLAKE AS COACH

Famous Vanderbilt Captain To Direct Local High School Champions.

IS NOW IN BUSINESS HERE.

Football Outlook Was Never Brighter and Fine Team Is Trying Out.

High School is to be represented by one of the best teams that ever wore the Orange and Black.

There is a large squad to select from.

Now that the baseball season is about over, the minds of all the athletic interested are turned toward football, and the question most asked is "What kind of team is the High School going to have?" Of course one can never tell about a team until it is seen in action, but from the looks of the squad, and the small number of men so-called "the first team," the 1912 team of the High School should be about the best that ever wore the Orange and Black.

Not many years ago, if as many as twenty were out for football, it was considered marvelous, but now with increased facilities and an increased number of students, there have been over forty on the football field in uniform and there are three organized football teams in the High School, the first team and its substitutes; the second team, composed of the most prominent candidates but who on account of lack of weight or experience are not yet ripe for the High School team; and the third team composed of the newest and most inexperienced men. All of these teams use practically the same plays and signals, so any member can be switched from one team to another without any inconvenience.

High School has the advantage of having one of the best coaches in the business this year. Dan Blake, of Vanderbilt fame, has charge of the squad and from present prospects he is going to develop a team that will repeat last year's performance and have the championship banner floating aloft at the end of the season. James Breathitt is also helping with the reserve.

The team that is to represent the

McLEAN IS NOW READY

New College Building Opens Its Doors Today For Business.

PROSPECTS ARE VERY FINE.

Bigger and Better Than Ever The Dormitory Has Risen From The Ashes.

All things are now ready up on College Hill for the opening of the new school year. The perseverance of the leading spirits in the raising of funds for erecting a new building on the ground where three former ones had gone up in smoke in about 25 years, commands the admiration of all. And so with the corps of teachers who were on duty last February, when everything was swept away. So few of the faculty saw best to make engagements elsewhere that it may really be said that the old faculty is now in its new home with new environments, as well as being filled with new zeal and enthusiasm for a new year. May McLean be greater than ever before is the wish of all our people.

Orange and Black will line up something like this:

Center, Cyrus Radford.
L. Guard, Tandy or C. Torian.
R. Guard, Walker.
L. Tackle, Lander.
R. Tackle, McReynolds.
L. End, Higgins or Hayes.
R. End, Weeks.
Quarter, Roberts.
L. Half, Waller.
R. Half, Fuqua.
Full Back, H. Abbitt, Capt.

Several changes may be made before the opening game, but at present the team is lining up as above.

Besides these men, there are a number who are but slightly inferior to them. Twyman at fullback or in the line is heavy and fast and should give a good account of himself before the season is over. M. Abbitt, Cayce and Dabney are a trio of good half backs, who, tho' light are showing up mighty well. Jesup at quarter back and Skerritt and Breathitt at the ends will also bear watching.

Don't forget to register today.

ONE SESSION EACH DAY

Vote Of Parents Counted Yesterday By Trustees And Others.

470 FOR AND 106 AGAINST.

Under By-Laws Change Cannot Be Permanently Made Under 30 Days.

The vote of the parents of children in the city schools on the question of session each day was counted yesterday morning at the Bank of Hopkinsville. Below we give the vote:

1 Session	2 Sessions
High School, City 104	19
" " County 42	2
Clay St. School, City 98	34
" " County 16	4
Virginia School, City 104	19
" " County 10	1
West Side School, City 92	25
" " County 4	2
Total	470 106

Majority in favor of 1 session.....364

The board of Trustees cannot, under its by-laws, make a permanent change under 30 days. But the board will stand by the vote counted yesterday and its temporary action in permitting the one day session during the month of September will hold good until final action is taken.

The action of the board is putting the question before the parents of the school children was a wise plan, and no one can adversely criticize them for so doing. The one session plan was in force up to the time Prof. McCartney was made Superintendent some fifteen years ago.

The votes were opened and counted by W. A. Long, J. T. Wall, Supt. Davis A. Clark, Rev. C. H. Branch and A. M. Wallis. It was the general opinion before the count began that a large percentage of the parents of the schools favored the change but probably no one believed that there was a majority of 364. This change means much to all concerned, but certainly more for country pupils than anybody else, as they can leave school much earlier in bad weather and get home before dark. There is no doubt as to its being much better for teachers, and as to the children, they have been wishing and working it like Trojans.

TABERNACLE EFFORTS END

The People Will Have A Year's Rest---And Then Some, Perhaps.

EVERYBODY IS INDIFFERENT

Four Different Propositions Turned Down Promptly As Offered.

The board of Tabernacle managers have been wrestling with next season's lyceum course for several months and have finally concluded not to put on a course of attractions and let the people rest for a year.

Every possible effort was made to arouse interest sufficiently encouraging to warrant them in entering into contracts for the usual series of eight entertainments, but all efforts were futile. Then a course of six attractions was tried, but that was a failure, too. Then a resolution was adopted that efforts to raise by popular subscription a sum sufficient to arrange for half a dozen attractions and throw wide open the doors of the tabernacle and let everybody go that wanted to. This was thought to be a solution of the problem that would meet with the approval of everybody, and so sanguine were the members of the board that the people would be glad to give the poor a chance for entertainment that every member of the board headed the list with their names, the amount subscribed being $50.00. But this, like other propositions, fell to the ground. Then another attempt was made on another plan, but that fell flat.

After mature consideration and using every means to get the people interested in a course of Tabernacle entertainments, and failing so signally, the board has abandoned all idea of putting on a course for the approaching season. However, any proposition for others to come to the rescue will be promptly considered and every assistance given that will tend to secure a lyceum course during 1912-1913.

MAN SHOT IN TODD.

Sheriff Lindsay Telephones For Assistance To Make Arrest.

RESULT OF DRUNKEN ROW.

About 1:30 p. m. yesterday Sheriff Johnson was called up by phone to start at once toward Allegree with a deputy to arrest Ed Morris who had shot Bob Kirkman, just over the Todd county line. The call was made by Lucian Lindsay, sheriff of Todd county. He had a warrant for the arrest of Morris, but he seemed pretty sure that Morris was trying to get over the line into Christian county before the warrant could be executed. Sheriff Johnson secured two good horses and he and Deputy Herbert Johnson left just after the call was made from Sheriff Lindsay.

The full particulars could not, of course, be learned, but it seems that Ed Morris and probably his brother, Bob Morris, who is mixed up in the trouble, as we learn, were indulging quite freely in booze and raised a row with Kirkman. So far as known the shot is not liable to prove fatal. The two Morris are believed here to be sons of the late George Morris, of the Pilot Rock vicinity.

DEMOCRATS

Should Be Here Next Monday To Hear Speech.

D. H. Kincheloe, of Madisonville, will be here next Monday, October 7th, and address the people in the interest of Wilson and Marshall. Mr. Kincheloe is one of the best speakers in the State and the Democrats and everybody else are cordially invited to hear him. Speaking will begin at 1:30 at the court house.

BEAUTY OF BABBLING BROOK

Every Farm Should Have One of These Pretty Streams Running Through its Meadows.

I have found it at last—the thing I have been dreaming about during all these years of city bondage; the thing that opens up vistas of bucolic beauty and benediction; a rift of blue sky through the smudge and smoke of the strenuous strife! And it has everything on it, except the brook murmuring lazily through the meadows and kicking up its silver heels over pebbled pathways. But you can't have everything on a small farm that someone else laid out in the days when city dwellers were not looking for babbling brooks. If I had had the parcelling out of farms,
I would have put a "laughing brook" somewhere on each one, for the pink-footed ducks to frolic in and snap their long bills over juicy bugs and worms. Perhaps the great and good Husbandman did not have enough brooks to go 'round, and I must worry along without a brook. Perhaps I will make one some of these days. In the meantime, I advise all my neighbors who have babbling brooks to take them in at night.—

Life Magazine.

art was proving decidedly interesting. After taking in the classical section, he met a habitue of the gallery

the ice.

"They've got some pretty fine pictures here," he began.

"Yes," replied the other, "some of the pieces are very valuable."

"But say," said the newcomer.
"They've got some rocky ones in the medical department, ain't they?"

TOO SENSITIVE.

"There is absolutely no use to talk to me about woman suffrage."
"Really, old man, I cannot understand why you oppose it so strongly."

"Well, I'll tell you. I was in a clothing store last week looking at some neckties when a woman came in and told one of the clerks she wanted to buy a collar for her dog."
—Judge.

MIGHT DO WORSE.

"You are always giving advice," said the impatient person.

"Well," replied the sentient friend,
"you ought to be thankful that I give you the results of my experience instead of asking you to listen to the entire hard luck story."—Washing-

FARM AND ROAD IMPROVEMENT

CONSTRUCTION OF CORN CRIB

Modern Farmer Now Uses Elevator for Cribbing Crop—Section of Building Is Shown.

Modern machinery and methods have brought about great changes in harvesting the corn crop and the modern farmer now uses a corn elevator for cribbing his corn. In response to several inquiries and for the benefit of those who intend to build new cribs to be filled with an elevator we publish herewith a sectional drawing showing how the crib should be built, how the timbers should be placed and the various sizes of same, says the Iowa Homestead. The drawing shows a section of a 24-foot crib with a ten-foot driveway in the center and a grain bin over the drive. The length may be any size from 25 to 200 feet long. In building one of these cribs it must be remembered that the roof must have an angle of at least 45 degrees, that is, the slope of the same

Section of Corn Crib.

must be what is called half-pitch, meaning that the distance from the peak down to the plate must be half the width of the building. This steep roof is necessary to accommodate the corn conveyor and distributing spout which is hung directly from the rafters. For this reason care must be used not to have any cross ties higher up on the rafters than shown in the drawing. The studs are two by six inches set 24 inches on centers. The braces A, B and C are all two by six inches placed four feet on centers.
The rafters are two by six inches set 24 inches on centers; the sills, if crib sets on piers, should be six by six inches or six by eight inches square.
A tie rod one-half or five-eighths inches in diameter should be placed across the building ten feet apart, as shown. The guide boards are for distributing the corn evenly in the crib, but should not be nailed in place until the conveyor is installed, as in the distributing spouts in the various machines, the spout is so arranged that the center studs forming the driveway may be extended up above the plate line as much as three feet, increasing the capacity of the grain bin just that much. The roof may be covered with any material, but a good composition roof is recommended.

MATERIALS FOR GOOD ROADS

Exact Proportions of Sand and Clay Cannot Be Given Definitely Because of Variations.

The exact proportions of sand and clay for making the best sand-clay road cannot be stated, as the proportions vary with the character of the sand, according to its sharpness, percentage of foreign material and size of grains. Approximately, there is in a sand-clay road about eighty per cent sand and twenty per cent clay.
One simple means of determining the theoretical amount of pure clay that should be added to any sand that is to be used in the construction of a sand clay road is to fill a glass tumbler brimfull with the sand that is to be used and then fill a similar tumbler with water; pour the water carefully onto the sand until the water comes flush with the surface, which will mean that all the voids between the grains of sand are now filled with water. The amount of water that has been poured into the tumbler containing the sand will represent the proportion of volume of clay that is necessary to add to that particular sand to fill all the voids with clay.

Having determined the source of supply of the best materials for making a sand-clay road, the next question is the mixing of the materials, and this varies with the character of the subsoil, whether this is a sand upon which clay is to be added or clay upon which sand is to be added. It will be found that it is much easier to make a sand-clay road where the subsoil is clay.

PLAN THE HOLIDAY SENSIBLY

One's Routine of Life Should Govern the Choice of Vacation to Make It Profitable.

None of us care much about making rules to govern our holidays, but there can be no question that a really health-producing vacation is obtained by letting the well earned period of rest be the antithesis of our ordinary occupation.

If you are engaged in severe manual labor, you will be well advised to obtain a quiet holiday with little physical exercise. If, however, your occupation is sedentary, involving mental work, a holiday including physical exertion in moderation is the best.

A walking tour for mental workers, for example, is excellent. When you start, limit your distance for the first few days to ten or fifteen miles a day. Avoid over exertion, over heating, wettings, and unsuitable food and drink. Wear woolen stockings, stout boots and a loose fitting woolen undershirt that allows free circulation of air about the spine. Do not change back to sedentary work too suddenly; that is almost as bad as over exertion at the start.

If you want to keep in good health and reap full benefit from your holiday, you must work hard and play hard, and so keep yourself fresh in mind and body.

NEW DISCOVERY OF VALUE.

The Scientific American of recent issue has the following: A new form of dark radiation seems to have been discovered by Prof. A. Remete who has been experimenting for some years with nitrate of boron. He has found that this substance gives off at ordinary temperature radiations which will influence a photographic plate through several thicknesses of black paper, leather, india rubber and glass, and the images obtained strongly resemble those given by the X-rays. The radiations are completely absorbed by metals. Electroscopic examination shows that nitrate of boron—like nitrate of uranium—emits electrons, or negative particles, and it is suggested that this points to some connection of nitrogen with radioactive phenomena hitherto unsuspected. It is certainly curious that, up to the present, radio-activity has generally manifested itself in the presence of salts.

TIP FOR WALKING PARENTS

English Scientist Discovers in Africa Unique Remedy for Sleepless Babies.

An English scientist traveling in Africa noticed a native woman put her infant to sleep by letting water trickle through a hollow reed placed on its forehead. This led to experiments which show that here is a method of producing sleep in young or old when all other devices fail.

A hollow, rubber pad is placed on the forehead, this pad being connected by a small hose with a reservoir at a higher level. An outlet for the water is also provided. All that is necessary is to turn the water on and as it trickles through the hose it causes a rhythmical throb on the brow of the subject which by its monotony and soothing action soon makes him forget his troubles and drop off.

The system is specially successful with babies, and if it is generally adopted the fine art of "walking the floor" with the last born at the dead of night will be rendered unnecessary. In certain cases of fever, etc., ice water can be used in the apparatus to reduce the temperature of the patient.—Pathfinder.

CHANGED NAME FOR HER

Bride Objected to Cognomen of Koroski, So It Was Chopped Down to Korr.

To win a bride Abraham J. Koroski has sacrificed his name. No longer will he bear the title of his Hungarian fathers. He has chosen the more euphonious one of Abe Jonas Korr to please his fiancée.

Miss Beatrice Carol Herman was unwilling to become Mrs. Koroski, but had no objection to being known as Mrs. Korr. Hence the change.

"I saw that I had no show, handicapped as I was with my name, so I eliminated it," said Korr or Koroski. "It is easy to do. I would be willing to annihilate myself—for her."

"I didn't like his name. When he said that he would give it up, why, then I answered 'Yes,'" said Miss Herman. "He has done so many things to please me—changing his name is only one of them."—Chicago Tribune.

AMERICANS DESPOIL DOORS

The collecting of old English door knockers is a craze at present among the visiting Americans. In some cases they call at houses in Bloomsbury and other old quarters and offer high prices for the knockers on the doors.

In other instances, apparently, they do not trouble to make a formal call. At least it is said that some fine old knockers have been wrenched off doors in Mayfair, and it has been noted with some amusement that the Duke of Devonshire has just taken the precaution of having some extra screws put into the famous knocker on the door of Devonshire house.

THE ENGLISH COOK.

M. Escoffier, the famous London chef, was talking to a tourist at the Carlton about London cooks.

"The typical London cook," he declared, "was certainly the one who snuffed and said to me:

"'Plain cookin'—that's where you put the whole egg inside the puddin'. And fancy cookin'—that's where you put the yoke inside and the white outside. There ain't nothin' to it, nuther; ain't it only just the same one egg wherever you put it?'"

HOW A BLIND MAN TOLD COLOR.

"Is it true," asked Sallie, "that the blind can determine color by the sense of touch?"

"Sure," said James. "I once knew a blind man who could tell a red hot stove just by putting his finger on it."—Ladies' Home Journal.

GOING THE ROUNDS.

"Gossip makes the world go round."

"How do you figure that out?"

"Why, it keeps each half going around talking about the other half."

PERTINENT.

"Pop, see those wheels on the aeroplane that they are bringing out?"

"Yes, my boy."

"Well, pop, are they flywheels?"

POINTS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Preserving and Cooking Hints That Have Been Handed Down for Many Generations.

When making marmalade jam cut rounds of tissue paper the size of the jar, soak each in vinegar and lay close over the top of the preserve. This will prevent it going moldy.

There's an easy way to make jelly, and that is to boil the fruit right in the muslin jelly bag. The filled bag is placed in a large kettle and covered with cold water. After boiling until the fruit is soft, the bag with its contents is lifted out and suspended from a hook to drain all night. If one has no assistant this idea has much to commend it.

Do not throw away vinegar in which homemade cucumber pickles have been preserved. Keep it and use it in salad dressing, instead of the ordinary vinegar. The flavor is delicious and one that cannot be gained in any other way.

When canning or spicing fruit save the surplus juice in the airtight jars and when you make your home-made mince meat pour this juice into the mince meat. You will find this saves sugar and at the same time gives the mince meat a much richer flavor.

To open a stubborn fruit jar, invert the top of the jar in hot water (boiling hot, but not boiling), taking care that the water is not deep enough to touch the glass. The principle is to expand the metal top. Then open as usual. A minute or two is sufficient; should it remain in too long the glass would also be expanded.

HOUSEHOLD QUESTIONS

In molding peppermints or other candy, keep the hands dusted with confectioners' sugar.

Potato balls which are salted in butter after being boiled are delicious. They should be served with a generous sprinkling of minced parsley.

To clean a frying pan after fish or onion, boil out the pan with soda water, washing clean, then put it on the fire and shake a little oatmeal in.

Small tin cans can be used for gem or patty cake pans by melting both ends from them in a dripping pan. The cakes will easily slip out of the bottomless rings.

When using a bottle of glue, the stopper may be prevented from sticking by rubbing a fresh one with a little lard or grease of some kind and using that in place of the old sticky one.

To clean an enameled bathtub wipe it dry and then rub it with a cloth dipped in turpentine and salt. Afterward wash it with clean warm water, then wipe it dry and it will look like a new tub.

Blackberry Pudding.

One egg, one cupful of sugar, one cupful of sweet milk, one-half cupful of butter, one-half cupful of lard, two cupfuls of sifted flour, one-quarter of a teaspoonful of salt, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one pint of blackberries. Beat sugar, butter and lard to a cream; add beaten egg, milk and flour sifted with the salt and baking powder. Dredge berries with flour, use no juice and add. Place in a pudding mold. Steam two hours.

Sauce—One cupful of sugar, one tablespoonful of butter, one teaspoonful of flour, one cupful of boiling water. Mix butter and sugar, add flour, pour on the boiling water and cook until it foams.

Pineappleade.

Pare and slice some very ripe pineapples; then cut the slices into small pieces. Put them with all their juice into a large pitcher and sprinkle among them plenty of powdered white sugar, half pint to each pineapple; cover the pitcher, and let it stand till quite cool, occasionally pressing down the pineapple with a spoon. Then set the pitcher for awhile in ice. Lastly, strain the infusion into another vessel, and transfer it to tumblers, putting into each glass some more sugar and a bit of ice. This beverage will be found delicious.

Spice Cake.

Make a cream of one cupful of butter and two cupfuls of sugar. Add four beaten eggs and stir for five minutes longer, then mix in a cupful of sweet milk, one quarter of a grated nutmeg, one tablespoonful each of cinnamon, mace, nutmeg and cloves. Measure three cupfuls of cream of tartar and one of soda. Sift twice and stir in with the rest of the ingredients. Bake from 40 to 60 minutes in a moderate oven.

Olive Cherries.

Take as many pint jars as you want, fill each jar one-fourth full of good vinegar, then take ripe cherries, cutting off stems, leaving them one-half inch long. Then fill the jars with the cherries, put in one level tablespoonful salt, and fill up with cold water; seal up and they are ready for use in three weeks. Are fine.

Quince Jam.

Pare the quinces and grate them or a coarse grater, add three-fourths of a pound of sugar to each pound of fruit and cook slowly for 30 minutes or until the jam comes clear from the pan. Stir and mash often while cooking. Pour into jars or tumblers.

Corn Custard.

After cutting the corn from the cob mix it medium thick with milk, pepper and salt to taste. Then add three well-beaten eggs and bake 25 or 30 minutes.

Those Bad Spells.

Lebanon Jct., Ky.—Mrs. Minnie Lamb, of this place, says: "I believe I would have been dead by now, had it not been for Cardui. I haven't had one of those bad spells since I commenced to use this medicine." Cardui is a specific medicine for the ills from which women suffer. Made from harmless, vegetable ingredients. Cardui is a safe, reliable remedy, and has been successfully used by weak and ailing women for more than fifty years. Thousands of women have been helped back to health and happiness by its use. Why not profit by their experience? A trial will convince you that Cardui is just what you need.

A SUMMARY OF NEWS COMPILED AND COLLECTED FROM ALL SOURCES

WEATHER FOR THE WEEK.

Washington, Sept. 29.—The coming week will be one of cool and generally fair weather over the greater part of the country east of the Rocky Mountains, and during the first part of the week there will be a light rain in the Rocky Mountain region, the Plains States, the Upper Mississippi and Ohio Valley, the Lake region and the North Atlantic States.

The next general disturbance to cross the country will appear in the far West Monday or Tuesday, cross the great central valleys about Wednesday or Thursday and the Eastern States Friday or Saturday. This disturbance will be preceded by a general rise in temperature and be attended by well distributed rains.

Chairman Camden, of the State Campaign Committee, addressed the Democratic editors of Kentucky at a luncheon at the Country Club, near Louisville, Saturday afternoon. The editors later formed themselves into the Democratic Editorial Association of Kentucky and pledged themselves to do everything possible to forward the work of the campaign. Harry Sommers was elected President and Dave Duncan, of Brandenburg, Secretary.

Bob won a Rhodes scholarship, was educated in England and is now a Nashville lawyer. He was the best all-around athlete ever turned out by Vanderbilt. Dan, who graduated about eight years ago, sustained the reputation of the family and the team he headed was one of the best the University has ever had. Dan Blake is now local manager of the electric light and gas plants of the Kentucky Public Service Co. and a citizen of Hopkinsville. The High School boys are fortunate indeed in being able to secure his services as coach.

"MUTT and JEFF."

Everybody who reads a newspaper has seen the funny "Mutt and Jeff" pictures and to see them is to laugh. They would make the Egyptian Sphinx laugh. No mere play in the past decade has left such a trail of merriment as has this clever musical comedy conceit by the New York American's clever cartoonist, Bud Fisher. TOBACCO MEN

Urged To Hear J. Campbell Cantrill Wednesday and Thursday.

Hon. J. Campbell Cantrill will make two speeches in the county this week.

Wednesday at Pembroke. Thursday at Hopkinsville. Speaking will begin at both places at 1 o'clock p. m. The time for signing up is drawing to a close and no one intending to pledge his tobacco should defer signing the pledge any longer. It is either reorganization or dissolution. Mr. Cantrill can convince the most skeptical that it is of vital interest to every tobacco grower to join the association if he wants to get anything like a reasonable price for tobacco. The county officers urge every tobacco grower to hear Mr. Cantrill on the above two dates.

FUNERAL DIRECTORS.

PURELY PERSONAL.

Mrs. J. J. Henry, during Col. Henry's absence from the city this week will visit Mrs. P. B. Pendleton, near Pembroke.

Prof. C. H. Dietrich, of Winchester, is in the city.

Mrs. A. M. Wallis, who visited her daughter, Mrs. D. W. Chilton, at Pembroke last week, returned home today.

Miss Fannie Bell, Brounigh left last week for St. Louis where she spent a few days. She will visit relatives in different parts of Missouri and will be absent from the city several months.

Miss Florence Coffin, of Birmingham, Ala., will arrive today to visit Miss Sarah Cooper. Miss Cooper will give a box party in her honor at the opening of the Garrack Theatre in Madisonville Friday night.

Philip Haynes, of Howell, left yesterday for Ann Arbor, Mich., to enter the medical department of the University of Michigan. He is a son of Dr. W. A. Haynes, one of the leading physicians of Christian county, and attended Bethel College at Russellville last year.

Bruce Grubbs has succeeded R. F. Fowler as local manager for the Postal Telegraph Co.

Mrs. Fred Moss will leave in the morning for Plant City, Fla., where she will spend several months. She is forced to seek a warmer climate on account of ill-health.

Col. O. G. Sprouse and Mr. W. D. Porter spent Sunday in Nashville, the latter returning home Sunday night.

Chief of Police Ellis Roper, who spent part of his vacation in Paducah on a visit to his daughter, Mrs. Dudley Tichenor, returned home Thursday and is again on duty.

Capt. E. W. Clark has recovered from an attack of malarial fever.

Princeton Presbytery meets today at Marion for a three days' session. Rev. E. B. Landis and Elder J. P. Myers, of the First Presbyterian church, will attend.

Miss Cricket Eckles, of Springfield, who is visiting her sister, Mrs. John L. Thurmond, was the guest of honor at the Elks Club Friday night at a dinner party given by Messrs. W. E. Howe and S. H. Horner. The same evening there was a dance at the Club, music being furnished by Charlie's Band, of Nashville.

Mr. Robt. N. Holdsworth has resigned his place at the head of the jewelry department of Forbes Mfg. Co., and will go to Louisville in about two weeks. His departure will be regretted by the many friends he has made here.

Miss Alice Radford will leave for Louisville today in company with Miss Fugate, of Adairville, to attend the convention of State Bankers. Miss Fugate's father is President of the bank at Adairville.

Miss Lois Finnell, of Georgetown, is visiting Miss Frances Pendleton, of Pembroke. Miss Finnell was a teacher in Bethel Female College last year.

MAN WINKED

Just As Everybody Had Concluded He Was An Automaton.

Manager W. S. Harned, and Col. W. A. Wilgus of the Planters Hardware Co. have another surprise in store for the public advertising Durham Duplex Razors. About two years ago Mr. Harned had a demonstrator in his show window, shaving an automaton, seemingly by mechanism. So well did he act the part that the man was mistaken for an automaton himself until late in the day when a young lady "tried him out" by winking and the man winked back.

It is not known what the particular stunt is to be this time, but a lady will be the demonstrator this year and she will be in the window next Wednesday and Thursday. Lookout for her.

A PRETTY COMPLIMENT.

The Countess Szechenyi paid a pretty compliment on a recent visit to New York.

The girl, a charming blonde, was summoned to the countess's apartment, and, at the end of her work, she blushed and modestly said:

"Might I ask you, madame, for your autograph?"

The countess chose a sheet of crested note paper, scribbled a line on it, and said:

"Here is an autograph and a testimonial as well."

The manicure girl took the sheet of tinted paper and read, above the countess's signature, the words:

"There's a divinity that shapes our ends."

COPYRIGHTED CALENDARS

THE PLANS for your advertising campaign next year should by all means include a handsome Art Advertising Calendar for 1913. We have secured the exclusive agency for the copyrighted calendars produced by the A. M. Collins Manufacturing Company, of Philadelphia. This is one of the largest and most substantial calendar houses in the United States, and the quality of their line is superior to that of any ever shown in this section. This line will be handled exclusively by us in Christian and Trigg counties. It includes a great number and variety of subjects in full color, as well as some hand-colored pictures of exceptional beauty. The samples for 1913 are in our hands, and we shall be glad to show them to you at an early date. Make no plans for your 1913 calendars until you see this extraordinary line.

LIMITS TO HER CLEVERNESS

Empress Dowager of China, Able Woman as She Was, Did Not Know It All.

The author of "Two Years in the Forbidden City," the Princess Der Ling, was a lady in waiting at the court of the empress dowager of China, lately deceased.

Her majesty, the princess tells us, had an excellent estimate of herself. "I have often thought," she once confessed, "that I am the most clever woman that ever lived, and that others cannot compare with me."

Notwithstanding this favorable opinion, there were interesting lapses in universal knowledge, as when Miss Carl painted her portrait, and her majesty noticed the artist's signature in the corner of the canvas.

"Well, I know foreigners do some funny things," she remarked, "but I think this is about the funniest I ever heard of. Fancy putting her name on my picture. This will naturally convey the impression that it is a portrait of Miss Carl, and not a portrait of myself at all."

Even after the princess—who was of western education—had explained, and the empress had consented to allow the signature to remain, she was anything but satisfied.

SUICIDES IN AUSTRIAN ARMY

Official Statistics Show 2,614 in the Last Ten Years—Military Men Are Alarmed.

A surprisingly high percentage of suicides in the Austrian army is revealed by official statistics just published. These show that 2,614 suicides and 450 attempts at suicide of officers and enlisted men have occurred in the last ten years.

The figures are the highest for any army in Europe and the proportion is sixteen times greater than that of the total suicides in the entire population of the monarchy.

Motives were ascertainable in only about half the cases. The records show that the most frequent causes were fear of punishment, love affairs, unwillingness to serve in the army and ill treatment.

The higher number of suicides is all the more remarkable because it is generally considered that Austrian soldiers are well treated in comparison with those in some of the other European countries.

SILK MADE OF HORSEFLESH.

German chemists are reported to have succeeded in utilizing fibrous animal refuse—such as the flesh of dead horses—for making artificial silk. Treatment with acids disintegrates the flesh into its ultimate fibers, and these are given a silky appearance, with great durability, by a kind of tanning process. The threads produced greatly resemble those of the wild silkworm, are about two inches long. They may be vulcanized like true silk, and can be made airtight and watertight by immersion for a couple of hours in a caoutchouc bath under a pressure of four atmospheres. The material seems to promise something cheaper than silk for balloon envelopes, insulation, etc., though attempts to spin the fibers into thread have not yet been successful.

GREATEST CONCRETE ARCH.

The largest concrete arch in magnitude in the world, and the second largest as respects length of span, is at Pittsburgh. It forms part of the Larimer avenue bridge over a deep ravine and measures 312 feet clear span. In Australia, 12,000 miles away, there is a huge arch of concrete with a clear span of 317 feet; but as it is 36 feet wide, as compared with the 50-foot width of the Larimer avenue bridge, the American work is by far the largest. The height of the Pittsburgh structure is 113 feet.—Popular Mechanics.

FALL OPENING

At Sprouse Store A Brilliant Event In The Commercial Life of City.

The O. G. Sprouse Co. opened the fall season Friday with a notable display of new goods and great crowds thronged their store on Ninth street. An Italian Band from Nashville rendered sweet music throughout the day and the store was elaborately decorated for the occasion.

Mr. Sprouse came over from Springfield and was in personal charge and a dozen salesmen were busy waiting on the delighted customers. This company has already firmly established itself as one of the city's biggest mercantile concerns. The fall season is now in full blast.

Hon. John F. Bible loaned his big Moose head to the Bull Moose people in Louisville and it was put up in the lobby of the Hotel Watterson. In putting it into place it came near crushing three negro porters who were helping to raise it into place.

SUDDEN DEATH

Of Mrs. Croft Caused By Paralysis.

Mrs. Lula Croft, wife of G. C. Croft, died at their home near Castleberry church, Sunday evening of paralysis with which she was stricken a few hours before.

The deceased was about 40 years of age and an estimable christian lady.

She is survived by her husband and one son.

Funeral yesterday afternoon and interment in the Campbell burying ground.

Returns To Paducah.

Herman E. Katterjohn has resigned his position at Elgin's drug store and will return to his home in Paducah, tomorrow. After a year's study he will go to New York City and hopes in four years to become a full fledged M. D. Mr. Katterjohn made many friends here during his three months stay and all wish him a great success in his chosen profession. He likes Hopkinsville and may some day hang out his shingle in the best of all Kentucky cities.

PAINTING UNDER THE SEA

Artist Discovers a Way of Making Pictures Down in Depths of Old Ocean.

An artist has lately found a way of painting under the sea. He goes down in a diver's suit, to which air is supplied through a tube and other apparatus and there with heavy oiled paper and paints he makes quick sketches of what he sees. He has painted a picture of fishes that have fins so large that they are like the wings of butterflies and make the queer creatures appear to be flying through the strange green gloom of the water. Sometimes it seems as if many of the fairy stories are actually coming true in every day life. When the Frenchman, Jules Verne, wrote his fanciful story called "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea" no one supposed that anything like that could ever really come to pass, and yet the divers and submarine boats nowadays have made such a voyage almost as ordinary occurrence, though, perhaps, no boat has yet descended quite so deep as Verne fancied nor has traveled quite so far.—Christian Science Monitor.

PUNCH MIXED IN FOUNTAIN

Modern Extravagance Was Outdone by Edward Russell, British Commander, in 1691.

Soapbox orators prate persistently of modern lavishness and splendor and tell listeners that "it is growing worse all the time." What would they say if they heard of a punch that required:

"Four hogsheds of brandy, a pipe of Malaga, eight hogsheds of water, five pounds of grated nutmegs, three hundred toasted biscuits and thirteen hundred-weight of fine white sugar?"

These ingredients are quoted from a publication called the Caterer. This punch, the Caterer tells us, was mixed in a fountain basin at Alicante for six thousand guests of the Rt. Hon. Edward Russell when that soldier in 1691 commanded the British forces in the Mediterranean.

This punch should knock out some of the soapbox charges that the world continually is growing more extravagant.

ST. KILDA'S INHABITANTS.

Islanders of St. Kilda, in the Atlantic, off the coast of Scotland, were saved from privation last spring by the arrival of the British cruiser with stores. They were more fortunate than the colony of fisherfolk on the arctic island of Nova Zembla in 1911. For ten months it had been impossible to open up communication with the island, and when at last a steamer arrived with provisions every one of the inhabitants was dead of starvation. The last man to die had left a penciled message telling how the wool from the clothing had been eaten, and that two men who ate of the flesh of their dead companions died. All the children were dead and only two women and three men besides himself left alive. A tragic postscript added: "I, Chenoff, am now the only person living. My hands shake, by eyes are growing dim, and I feel the end is near." And after that the impenetrable veil.

WHEN THE HOURS DRIED THEIR HAIR

Or What the Doctor Discovered in the Heat of New York.

By JUNE GRAHAM.

(Copyright, 1912, by Associated Literary Press.)

"Did he take it, mother, did he?" "Now girls," Mrs. Vernon protested, breathlessly, "not all at once, please. Yes, he took it. Bab, dear, don't prance."

"But, mother, I'm dancing for joy." "He's such a dear."

"For how much?" asked Josephine, briskly. "It's worth ten with breakfast, mumsie, summertime, you know."

"But he takes his meals all out, Jo. And I let him have it for eight. He seems such a quiet person, just a big nice boy."

"Boy? Hasn't he a Vandyke and moustache, mother?"

"Charlotte, not so loud. No, he is quite smooth shaven. He is a doctor. He has come on from the middle west—Indiana, I think he said—to take up a special summer course here, and he needs a quiet place to live, with no distractions."

She paused impressively to let this point penetrate. The guilty four surrounded her with sober faces and grave, sympathetic eyes.

There was Bab, blonde as a Christmas doll, and tall for her age; Josephine, demure and brown eyed, with satin bands of dark hair bound about her small head, Madonna-wise. Bab said that Jo resembled a sleek young doe, with wide surprised eyes.

Virginia came next, wondrously gentle, and fair like Bab. All the Vernon mischief found spring and gout in Virginia's silence, and just now she sighed, as if over the doctor's impending fate. Last of all, Charlotte with her fox hair and fox eyes, half closed and full of amber glints, Carlotta who would wear gowns of dull apple greens, and tenderest browns and mauves, and look like a grave, sweet princess maiden.

"We won't bother him, mother dear," said Carlotta now, kindly and understandingly. "Don't you worry."

So Dr. Arnold settled down in his summer quarters contentedly, thankfully. The house was one of the old mansions in the Washington square district, long since turned into a select rooming place. With four daughters to care for and educate in her widowhood, Mrs. Vernon had chosen this as the most comfortable, and as Virginia put it, inconspicuous way of earning a living in New York.

The doctor liked it. He was from a small town, thriving, but lacking frills. He was past his first struggles, and had succeeded. Ever since his interne days in Chicago he had longed to spend a season each year in New York, taking up special courses in one branch and another, and this was the first chance. There were no distractions, no annoyances at the Vernon house, he found. True, in the early morning as he passed out for breakfast he caught sight of various young persons, all with averted faces and hasty footsteps.

"Good morning, doctor," each would murmur, and gravely would the doctor acknowledge the greeting. He wondered how many daughters Mrs. Vernon had.

Saturday afternoon there were no classes at the clinics. The afternoons were for home study, he had decided. Seated by one of the long French windows, half hidden by cool art scrim curtains, he beheld one very young person sally stealthily forth into the back garden and proceed to dry her hair in the sun.

It was a pretty garden, small as some toy one of Nippon. A stray bit of holy writ fluttered airily through the doctor's mind. "My love is like a garden inclosed."

This was a garden inclosed in high brick walls, hidden by heavy masses of ivy. In the small diamond center of grass stood a tiny arbor, overrun with wistaria. There were pansy beds and mignonette borders, and low groups of dusky red and gold nasturtiums.

The doctor closed his book and regarded the young person drying her hair in the sun. It was beautiful hair. She might have been the love of the South Wind, My Lady Dandelion, with that golden glory falling about her. Her hair took on most wondrous glints in the sunlight, the doctor mused. This must be one of Mrs. Vernon's daughters. The youngest, possibly. Her shoulders drooped in schoolgirl fashion.

The doctor resumed his reading. Presently when he glanced up there were two girls in the garden. Industrious and without regard for the world above the garden, they dried their hair in the sun.

Josephine's hair was very long. She looked like some brown nymph of the woods when it fell about her. The doctor became meditative, almost retrospective. In this day of artificiality and pretense it was refreshing and reassuring to find here, in the heat of New York, such normal, beautiful crowns of glory, he told himself. It showed poise of health, of mental and physical health.

Here Virginia stole forth, robed in the white garments of a blameless life, her long blonde curls dripping like some Lurline of the Rhine.

"You'll get your kimono all wet," admonished Jo, the practical. Virginia laid her fingers to her lips.

"Mother says we must not talk. We might disturb the doctor, girls."

The doctor closed his book and laid it on the desk. Beneath his windows, to and fro along the narrow walks, paced the girls, drying their hair in the sunlight. Women to him meant frail, nervous, pitiable creatures, handicapped by the old curse of Eden. Young or old, rich or poor, he had grown to class them indiscriminately as patients of the infinite, ever ailing. These girls were not of this class. Every vibrant electric hair on their lovely heads upheld its own affidavit as to their perfect health, and even while the doctor mused, impersonally, professionally even, out stepped Carlotta, her tawny curls clinging to her head, a huge turkish towel wrapped around her shoulders over a dress of silk the color of a lily leaf.

Sunlight and firelight mingled, the doctor thought, watching that radiant topknot steal the sun's glory. She lowered her head and swept the curling mass forward, and the doctor knew no man's eyes had ever seen its like before.

He moved the curtains back with one hand, and lo, the four lifted innocent eyes of wonderment, and Virginia asked: Are we disturbing you, doctor?"

And the doctor was abashed. He protested that he was not being disturbed, but that it was a great pleasure.

Bab chuckled. The doctor bowed discreetly and withdrew his head, seized his hat and went out for a walk to forget the view of the garden disclosed.

"I'm afraid we did disturb the doctor, girls," said Carlotta. "Maybe he isn't used to a galaxy, girls."

"Are we that, Carlotta?" Bab cried joyously. "Something starchy and beautiful? He looked at you the longest."

"His eyes were glued to your hair," pronounced Jo.

Carlotta laughed.

"That's a neat little picture, Jo. I must say. Hope they come off easily. Remember once at school when a boy threw chewing gum at my hair, I mean my rippling curls, and you girls had to cut it out before mother discovered it."

"Well, I don't care," said Virginia, firmly. "I think the doctor is just as tame and intelligent as he can be."

"Intellectual, Gene. Animals are intelligent."

"Man is the noblest brute of all, saith someone. He has a most intelligent face."

Every Saturday afternoon the doctor's study hour was interrupted by what he called in his heart of hearts the hair washing festival of the hours. Did he watch for it? The doctor was young and human; and he had an appreciation of the beautiful. Also, had he not come to New York to study life in all her myriad phases. Most of all he watched for Carlotta and her strange red gold curls, tawny as some fox of the woods. And he prolonged his weeks of special study.

One evening he was late from a lecture. As he bounded up the stairs, Mrs. Vernon met him, a trifle pale and worried.

"Was there any accident in the subway, doctor? The girls are late, too."

"None in the subway. There's a big fire uptown. I stayed to watch them take away the injured. It's the Washington theater."

"The girls are there, Bab and Carlotta and Jo. Virginia stayed to keep me company. Oh, doctor, my girls—"

The doctor became suddenly his professional self.

"Get rooms ready. I may be able to bring them home. And keep yourself steady. They will need you, you know. Nobody was killed, Mrs. Vernon."

His cheery, strong voice buoyed her up even after the door slammed behind him. Swinging along Waverly place, around Fifth avenue, and so to the Eighth avenue stand, the doctor took a taxi up to the hospital where the injured had been taken.

Yes, there was a Miss Vernon, they told him. Her sisters had only minor injuries in the crush that followed the fire panic.

He told them he was the Vernon family physician, and was taken to the long ward where Carlotta lay with other girls and women. He drew the screen around her cot and knelt.

"Dear, dear, are you badly hurt?" he asked huskily. For the first time in his career the doctor lost his professional calm. Carlotta opened her eyes and smiled.

"Not much, doctor, not nearly so much as most of the poor creatures. My shoulder hurts, and—what do you think—my hair caught fire from a falling curtain as we came from the boxes. Not all of it—"

It lay on the pillow about her, singed and shortened, but beautiful as ever, and the doctor pressed his face down on it.

"I came to take you home to your mother, Carlotta," he said. "Do you mind?"

"Mind what?" asked Carlotta. "I'm awfully in love with you, dear, and upset, and—oh, don't you know what it all means to me?"

Carlotta's hand stole out to rest on his bowed head.

"I know," she whispered. "I'm afraid we did bother you, doctor."

"Say Jack."

She moved her head nearer on the pillow. "Better take me home, hadn't you—Jack?"

First Time George Leaves Home. "George is always looking for opportunities to show his devotion."

Yes. He said if I telegraphed him he wanted me to be sure to send a night message. Dear boy. He wants to sit up all night to get it."

Worse.

She—I got an awful shock last night when I looked under the bed. He—You didn't see a man there! She—Mercy, no! A mouse.

SALADS FOR HOT DAYS

CONCOCTIONS THAT WILL TEMPT POOR APPETITE.

When Heavy Meat Dishes Are Out of Place These May Be Used to Advantage—Both Cooling and Nourishing.

The appetite jaded by heat may be tempted by salads only when those salads are reasonable. Heavy meat concoctions and most of the fish mixtures are not suitable for hot weather.

The ideal summer salad has three requisites—it must be light, appetizing in appearance and icy cold. French dressing is more seasonable than mayonnaise, also more digestible, and fruits and vegetables are preferable to nuts, fish or meats. It is hard to get headed lettuce in summer, but if the young, tender leaves of the garden lettuce are crisped by being put in a cloth on the ice they are improved.

Salad being both cooling and nourishing, may be eaten at both lunch and dinner. To prepare it easily have lettuce always crisping in the refrigerator and also have a pint bottle filled with a thick French dressing. This should be well shaken before using, and any left in the salad bowl may be strained and poured back.

It is economical to use leftover vegetables and fruit from dinner of the previous day. Particularly nice is one made of tomatoes cut in eighths, asparagus, shredded green peppers, thinly sliced cucumber, a cake of Neufchatel cheese and a liberal supply of chili sauce. This is well marinated with French dressing flavored with onion, or chopped onion may be mixed through the salad. Serve on a bed of lettuce.

This salad may be mixed with string beans, peas or small lima beans. Cream cheese is good through the mixture, and if nothing else is convenient grate American cheese thickly over it.

A rather heavier salad is made from hard-boiled eggs cut lengthwise. Remove yolks and rub to a paste with anchovies. Refill and put a slice of anchovy on each section. Serve on hearts of lettuce.

Another nice mixture for a plain lettuce salad are squares of cream cheese sprinkled thickly with caviar. Place these in the center of the lettuce and surround with a border of crisp bacon broken very fine. Cover with French dressing seasoned with chutney.

Green peppers are invaluable for a summer salad. Served whole, they are delicious when mixed with a highly seasoned mayonnaise. A spoonful of the dressing should be put on top of each cup. Another good filling is cold slaw and shredded peppers well mingled. A pretty salad is made by arranging a bed of tender green lettuce leaves, or young pasturium leaves, and on it putting a center of cream cheese balls, then a row of shredded green peppers, another row of cheese balls and an outer border of shredded pimientos. The canned ones may be used. Cover with a thick French dressing. If onions are liked, small pearl onions can be sprinkled over the cheese balls.

A delicious fruit salad is a round of tender pineapple placed on a lettuce leaf. On top of the pineapple dot berries in season, strawberries, raspberries, blackberries or currants, and in the center of the berries have a round of cream cheese. Border the fruit mixture with mayonnaise and put a little in the center of the cheese.

Three cauliflower, broken in small pieces; one quart small cucumbers, one quart small silver skin onions, four green peppers, cut fine. Make a brine of four quarts of water and one pint of salt, soak all in this brine overnight. In the morning beat through in this same brine just enough to scald and pour into a colander to drain.

Mix two-thirds of a cup of flour with six tablespoons of mustard, one cup brown sugar, one heaping teaspoon of turmeric powder, add enough cold vinegar to make two quarts in all. Boil until thick, stirring often to prevent scorching. Add the pickler and just heat through.

Burnt Sugar Cake. Two and one-half cups flour, one cup of sugar, one cup of milk, two eggs, one-half cup butter, two teaspoonfuls baking powder, two teaspoonfuls flavoring. Take one cup sugar and burn in skillet, as soon as it is all melted pour in one-half cup of warm water; then stir until it looks like it was ready, and put in cake.

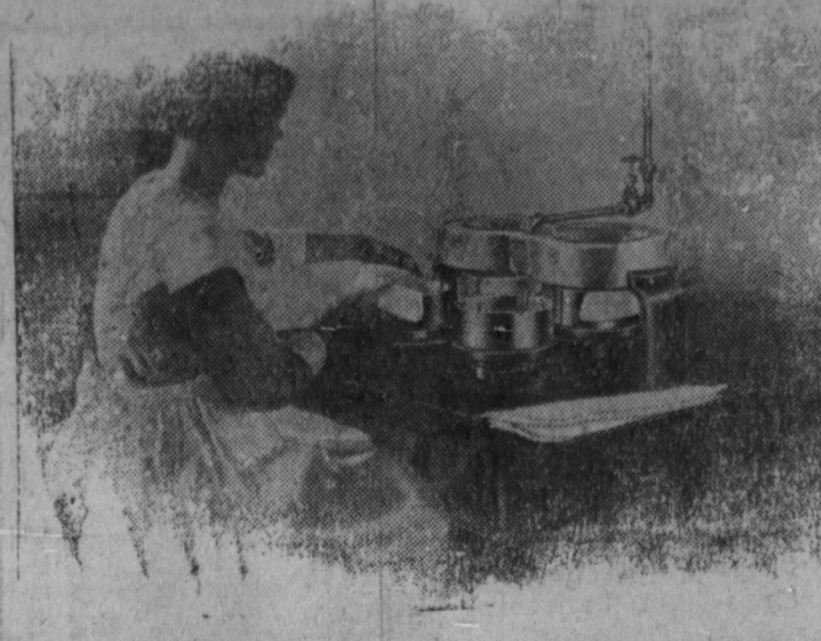

Filling—One and one-half cups of sugar, one cup of milk, a little butter; cook in skillet, where sugar was burned. Then bake.

Lemon Tarts. Puff Paste. To one pint of flour add one teaspoonful of baking powder; mix in one cupful of butter or lard; wet with cold water. Roll thin and line tart cups. Fill with filling.

Filling—One cupful of sugar, juice of one lemon, one egg, piece of butter size of walnut (melted). Beat together thoroughly. Use one table spoonful for each tart.

Tomato Salad With Cheese. Pick and slice the tomatoes and arrange in a salad dish. Make a dressing of oil, white wine, pepper and salt and stir in some grated Parmesan. Pour this over the tomatoes, let stand on ice for 15 minutes or so before serving.

One of the Number of Metcalfe's Exclusives

This is a cut of Metcalfe's new Prosperity Shaper, which is going such a long way in decreasing the irritation of men folks' necks and shoulders, by letting all fold collars be so ironed that they slides well in collar, and collars are given nice, smooth, oval edge. It is utterly impossible for a collar to crack or break in our laundering process. Our shirt department is one which we feel proud of; not only is work done right, but the shirts are put in Sanitary Covers. Our Dry Cleaning department is in the hands of skilled workmen.

The Kentuckian will publish the names of all subscribers to the national Democratic campaign fund as the money is received. It will be transmitted to the National Treasurer, Rolla Wells, who will send each contributor a handsomely lithographed receipt.

Address all subscriptions to the "Wilson Campaign Fund," care of this paper. Make cheques payable to that fund. Send in your subscription at once, no matter how large or how small.

The Democratic national campaign for the election of Governor Woodrow Wilson as President and Governor Thomas R. Marshall as Vice President of the United States is the people's campaign.

The Finance Committee ask you to aid them in their plan of raising campaign funds by popular subscriptions.

To THE EDITOR OF THE KENTUCKIAN:—

As a believer in the progressive ideals of government represented in the candidacy of Woodrow Wilson for president of the United States, and to the end that he may take the office free-handed, untrammelled, and obligated to none but the people of the country, I wish to contribute through you, to be forwarded to Rolla Wells, Treasurer, the sum of..... toward the expenses of the campaign.

MAKES FINE DESSERT

"ROYAL DIPLOMATIC PUDDING"
MAY BE RECOMMENDED.

Must Be Very Carefully and Properly Put Together, However, to Insure Success—Attractive Looking in the Extreme.

The fame of the double dealing diplomat has extended even to the humble realm of the kitchen and has given its name to the "royal diplomatic pudding," which requires double dealing of a very intricate sort to make it a success. Like the schemes of the wily diplomat it will fail completely if not put together with great care. The pudding is sometimes referred to as a "jelly au surprise," because when it is sent to the table its coating of jelly conceals its real character until it is opened, betraying the delightful surprise within. The main difference between the pudding and the diplomatic scheme is that the surprise in the former is always pleasant, while in the latter the contrary is likely to be the case.

A delectable Bavarian cream, or a custard with whipped cream beaten into it, usually forms the foundation of the pudding, and the jelly coating, while it should completely cover the interior, should be semi-transparent, permitting glimpses of something hidden—just enough to arouse curiosity and whet the appetite. If there is a pretty contrast of color between the cream and the jelly, so much the better.

A royal diplomatic pudding should always be prettily decorated with candied fruits, rose petals, angelica and so forth. Candied rose leaves and angelica make an appropriate decoration for a rose cream covered with a delicate green mint jelly. Maraschino cherries should, of course, accompany a maraschino jelly. The strawberries in their season are better with a strawberry jelly than ordinary candied fruit. A decoration of blanched almonds in the form of a daisy with a bit of yellow apricot or candied orange peel in the center, looks pretty when imbedded in the top of an almond Bavarian cream, covered with coffee jelly or one flavored with wine.

Whipped cream is the ideal sauce to serve with these desserts, but some cooks recommend a soft custard sauce. A little sweetened fruit juice may be used to flavor the whipped cream in some cases.

A novice in the art of making gelatine jellies will do well to reserve her attempts at building diplomatic puddings for those days when only her immediate family will be at dinner. A failure of this kind, unless it is very much of a failure, usually tastes just as good as a success, but it does not look pretty.

Turkish Delight.

To make Turkish delight take two heaping tablespoonfuls of powdered gelatine, one and a fourth cupfuls of water, two cupfuls of sugar, one teaspoonful of powdered citric acid, one teaspoonful of vanilla extract, red coloring, yellow coloring and two ounces of finely chopped blanched almonds. Put the gelatine into a saucepan, add the water, sugar and acid; bring slowly to boiling point, then boil gently for ten minutes, stirring occasionally. Rinse two deep plates with cold water, put the red coloring and vanilla extract into one, into the other put the almonds, lemon extract and yellow coloring. Strain the mixture into each and stir. Set in a cool place till cold and firm, then cut into neat squares, using a knife constantly dipped into boiling water, and roll in confectioners' sugar.

Cover for the Machine.

It is something of a nuisance to lift and lower the head of a machine every time one wishes to begin or quit sewing. At the same time, it is very injurious to the machine to allow it to stand uncovered for any length of time. A very good plan is to make a padded hood, or cover, of some soft material and put this over the machine when it is to stand idle for but a short time. This hood may be shaped very much like a typewriter cover.

Baked Bean Soup.

One pint of cold baked beans, one pint of hot water, a little sliced onions, one cup of stewed tomatoes; let all cook until very soft; rub through a sieve; season with salt, pepper and celery salt. If too thick, add more water, put back on the fire and let boil up. Just before serving add a cup of cream or rich milk.

Beef Soup With Okra.

Cut a round steak in small pieces and fry three tablespoonfuls of butter with one sliced onion until very brown; put into a soup kettle with four quarts of cold water and boil slowly one hour; add salt, pepper and one pint of sliced okra and let simmer three and one-half hours longer; strain before serving.

Spiced Crab Apples.

For six pounds of fruit use three of sugar, five dozen cloves and a handful of stick cinnamon (broken in pieces), one pint vinegar; boil the sirup, add fruit and cook until tender. Prick each apple before cooking with a fork, thus preventing the apples from breaking open.

Moths in Carpets.

Take a damp towel, spread it out upon the carpet and iron it dry with a hot iron. The heat and steam will destroy the worms and eggs.

TREATMENT OF FLOORS

HINTS THAT THE HOUSEKEEPER WILL FIND HELPFUL.

White Shellac Followed by Wax Polish
Best for Parquet Floors—Old Floors Stained to Match Rugs.

Even in new houses where hardwood floors are fresh and clean, some of the rooms will look better stained. For a parquet floor there is no better finish than to first fill with a coat of white shellac and then apply wax evenly with a cloth. Let the wax remain on several hours before rubbing down to a high polish with the weighted brush that comes for this purpose. With this simple finish the floors are easily kept bright by being rubbed with the weight once a week and being dusted daily with an ordinary broom over which a woolen cloth is tied.

Old floors may be stained to match the rugs so easily that one wonders why it is not often done. Purchase a package of dye the tint you want your floor, or you can get seal brown, which will resemble walnut when done, or light brown, which gives a handsome shade. Dissolve in boiling water as directed on the envelope and apply with a scrubbing or a white-wash brush. When perfectly dry this may be varnished. This finish may also be used on home-made furniture and on woodwork that has never been painted.

Very often stains made at home are more satisfactory than those already mixed; a pound of dry color costs in the neighborhood of ten cents, and this mixed with two quarts of turpentine will give beautiful stains of any desired color. Burnt sienna mixed with turpentine and applied to the floors with a coarse brush and then wiped off with a rag before it is entirely dry gives a beautiful mahogany stain, and the grain of the wood shows through beautifully.

Raw sienna also gives a transparent stain with a fine sunny yellow or orange effect, according to how much turpentine is used to dilute it with. It is a good color for halls, as it does not show the print of dust so plainly as darker stains do.

Prussian blue is a powerful stain with great possibilities. Two or three tablespoonfuls of the dry color will be sufficient for a half gallon of turpentine. On a yellow pine floor it gives green and blue shades that blend with blue hangings.

To keep a fine gloss on varnished floors do not wash with soapsuds, but sprinkle with dairy salt or coarse salt. Allow it to remain on five minutes and then sweep off with a soft broom.

When you must wash painted or varnished floors, put a little kerosene in the water. This will give a gloss.

Kitchen floors should never be covered with a carpet for dozens of reasons that all good housekeepers know. Linoleum is an ideal covering. If it is out of the question several coats of good inside paint will be found next best. Strips of carpet and rag rugs prevent the paint wearing off and soften the uncovered floor to tired feet.—Henrietta D. Grauel Domestic Science Lecturer.

Bread and Butter Pudding.

Cut stale bread into slices, dip in melted butter and arrange in a small baking pan—a slice of the bread to a layer of raisins which have been carefully washed and seeded. When the pan is full pour over it a mixture made of one pint of milk, the yolks of two eggs and two tablespoonfuls of white sugar. Bake in a moderate oven for half an hour. When baked whip to a stiff froth the whites of the eggs and pour over the custard, return to the oven for an instant until slightly browned. Serve with whipped cream or brandy sauce.

The Darning Basket.

When the weekly wash comes up from the laundry take the clothes that need mending and find patches of the material, yarn to darn with, or whatever is necessary to mend with, and pin the pieces to the articles to be mended; then put them aside in a drawer or sewing bag until you have time to sit down quietly and sew. Having everything ready, you will be surprised at the amount you can do at one sitting. By this method the weekly mending loses half of its terrors for the busy housekeeper.

Scald the Pears.

Scald your pears just as you do your peaches for canning. It is best to try a few at first, as ripe pears left in the boiling water too long will become soft and those that are green will not loosen from the skin unless left in longer. The water must be boiling hot. Then plunge the pears in cold water until ready to peel, when the skin will rub off easily. Reheat the water and use again. Do not wash first, as the skin will not loosen so easily.

When Breaking Eggs.

Very frequently when separating the whites from the yolks of eggs the yolk becomes broken and falls into the white.

Dip a cloth in warm water, wring it dry and touch the yolk with a corner. The yolk will adhere to the cloth and may easily be removed.

To Keep Toast.

Toast that is put in a glass jar with the lid screwed on tightly will keep fresh for hours.—Good Housekeeping

THE YANKEE GIRL FRIDAY

Madisonville's New Theatre is To Be Opened This Week.

The opening of the "Garrick Theatre" at Madisonville takes place next Friday night. After the curtain falls the local order of Elks will give a ball in their new home in honor of the opening of the Garrick and visitors in the city.

The musical comedy, "The Yankee Girl," will be put on the stage and below will be found a synopsis of the most popular plays of the day.

"The Yankee Girl" is the joint work of George V. Hobart, who wrote the book and lyrics, and Silvio Hein, composer of the score. Both are well known to lovers of musical comedy and in this vehicle for Miss Ring they are said to have outdone themselves with a happy result for all concerned. The piece has been hailed as the most genuine and wholly delightful success of the past decade and it is said that Miss Ring has a part that allows her to give full rein to her rollicking mirth provoking proclivities and incidentally she is provided with songs to sing that are suited to her jovial personality.

The piece has a plot and tells a humorous story of the experience of a jolly American girl in a Southern republic. The lines are bright and full of snap. There are many amusing situations and complications follow each other in rapid succession. The music is in a great measure responsible for the success attained by "The Yankee Girl." Mr. Hein's score is replete with catchy song numbers that fascinate one and wherever the piece is presented the tunes are whistled long afterward. A few of the songs that have especially caught the public fancy are: "Top of the Morning," "Where's Mama?" "That Bandit Man," "The Yankee Girl," "Maid of Service," "Love Among the Roses," and "Louisiana Elizabeth." Miss Ring is supported by a big singing company. Charles J. Winniger is the principal comedian. Others who have important parts are John Burkell, Robert B. Thurston, Madge Lawrence and Marie Hassman. There is a youthful and tastily gowned chorus of pretty girls and the scenic production is said to be a masterpiece of the scene painter's art.

EVANSVILLE LOOKING UP

Thinks Her Team Should Be in Faster Company Than the Kitty.

Hopkinsville people love baseball and they will support a team—if it is worth it. If our leaders in baseball will "get into the game" earlier next season and secure men who can play real ball, we do not think there is any reason to believe that the patronage extended will not be what it should.

From what is said below Evansville thinks she belongs in a higher class. That may be true; and if so where does "our friend, the enemy," Clarksville, belong? The following is from the Evansville Journal-News: "In meeting with the directors of the Evansville baseball club Monday night Dr. Frank Bassett, president of the K. I. T. League, agreed with the local magnates that Evansville should seek faster company than the Kitty next year. Future plans for Evansville will be discussed, but nothing will be made public until the directors decide on something definite.

"It was decided on at the meeting to send an Evansville representative with Mr. Bassett to the meeting of the national commission in Milwaukee November 2.

"In an interview Monday Dr. Bassett said: 'I do not know just what the Evansville men have up their sleeve, but I have a plan that I intend to suggest when the time is ripe. I will probably not launch my idea until after the meeting in November, but I will say that the plan is to start a new league with cities that compare favorably with Evansville in size, and where I believe a good league will make good. I have had this idea in mind for some time, but I have been unable to start anything definite. The situation in the minor leagues this season is such that I believe the scheme will be a success.'

SUCCESSFUL SEASON

At Edgewater Park Will Close To-day For Bathing And Boating.

Custodian Hugh Nelson will close the bathing season at Edgewater Park to-day, the cool weather having stopped the bathing. During the short season after the park was opened more than 1000 people were served at the bath house. Besides many went in the water who did not patronize the bath house. Mr. Nelson kept five boats busy all summer and there were as many private boats. All persons having bathing suits at the park are requested to call for them at once. Mr. Nelson will remove the boats for winter storage and the resort will close to-day.
